A question has been posed as follows:

- Q. “In reviewing the General conditions of the 6 wheel truck bid, I noticed the $100.00 per day delivery default clause. The truck manufacture can determine delivery to the Body Company, but cannot determine how long the body company will take to upfit the truck and have it ready for final delivery. I think this should be modified so the body company is responsible for there deliver time. The truck companies can give you the delivery time to the body company and our responsibility end there and they should be responsible from that point to final delivery.”
- A. We have chosen to use a single consolidated purchase placing all responsibility upon the bidder for those items specified in the bid documents. We do this for our convenience knowing we may be paying a bid to the bidder for their co-ordination efforts. Therefore we are leaving the specifications as published subject only to the changes in Addendum #1.
